(Frem Loudon Society.] Neel Rashleigh's Wedding.

[CONTINUED PROM YESTERDAY.] "When a man gives himself up to one pursuit, to which he gives up the whole of his time and energy, it is apt to become a second nature grafted upon the first; so that he is unlike to consider those trifles which make the sum of human things, and go to the fulfilment of domestic happiness. Mr.

Rashleigh, Gertrude is very young; in reality, though not in years, she is a mere child. I beseech you to take thought of her."
"Madam," replied Noel, looking at her with hazy, nncomprehending eyes, "her happiness shall be my dearest care." And Miss Chester, reading perfectly the expression of his face, knew that it would be hopeless to say any more.

We left Mr. Rashleigh, however, in the railway carriage on his return home after that memorable last visit before the wedding, the day for which had been fixed. As the distance increased between himself and Gertrnde the echoes of her voice ceased to describing the echoes of her voice ceased to hannt him; and by the time he reached his own house his meditations concerning some little alterations he had proposed to himself therein were oddly mixed with a wonder whether a certain pamphlet ordered before he left home had arrived in his absence.

He went to the study or laboratory, the construction of which had excited the village wonder some few years ago, when he finally gave up the farm on which his father had grown wealthy. A packet that met his eye was inimical to the alterations; they could be made at any time; and he was eager to dip into this new treatise on an old voice of his future brother-in-law roused him from a long fit of absorption, and he started up only half awakened from his reverie—one of those reveries concerning which Gertrnde already knew something—very little yet, and which she afterwards took to call "sublimates," with that "ucful sort of jesting which smothers a sigh, "Oh I was coming to you George" said 'Oh, I was coming to you, George," said

Mr. Rashleigh, bringing himself back with a jerk. "It's to be uext week—Wednes-day—yo" can come, I suppose." "Yes; I shall rnn up the day before. How did von lea ve theur?

"And from London you go where?" "Go!" repeated Mr. Rashleigh, puzzled; oh, I see. Yes. Upon my word I am not sure that we fixed decidedly. To the north,

I think it will be."

"The lakes? Very nice to be yon," said the curate, with a half sigh. "I must go.
I only looked in upon you in passing." only looked in upon you in passing."

And Mr. Rashleigh, left alone, tingered the leaves of that treatise a little longer, and then closed it, and went to walk up and down on his lawn, that he might think.

think.
Yes, it would be very nice; Georgo was right about that. Very nice to have a bright about that. Very life to have a bright little fairy singing about the lone-ly honse, and making it merry with her own light-heartedness. Very nice when he left his study to find her waiting for him, ready to talk or to be silent; to sit as she had sat for a little while the evening before, with her head resting on his should-er and her hand in his; or to walk with him shout those fields on which he had tried his unsuccessful experiments, and which were how let to his neighbor, Mr. Frankton.

Noel Rashlelgh spent the next half-hour as a lover should spend it, and then with a sudden practical thought he turned back into the house, and wrote to the country town for the very best piano which could be furnished at a short notice from a provin

The speaker stopped. It was as though the very enormity of that second report took her breath away. She, Mrs. Rodington Haye, was calling upon her neighbor, Mrs. Frankton, and the two ladies, having strolled into the garden, were supposed to be admiring the flowers.

"You had it from Mr. Chester?"

"Yes. The wedding takes place this week, I believe." week, I believe."

Mrs. Haye—she was very particular about that finale: it distinguished her from the commoner Hays to be tound in the provincial town—indulged in a speculative grimace. Of course Mr. Rashleigh had a right to be married if he liked, and without consulting his neighbors: nevertheless there was some slight feeling of aggreevement astir amongst them. They had a sort of yested interest in him as a bachelor. More than once he had lent tho lawn before his house as a croquet-ground; and lor. More than once he had lent the lawn before his house as a croquet-ground; and although Mrs. Haye herself cared nothing about croquet, yet she did like the liberty and license with which on such occasions she went through Noel's rooms, examined his furniture, and, in common with others, made herself perfectly at home in them. It was very useful to have such a house in the parish; and of course, if a mistress came to it, all that would be altered. But as to the second bit of gossip—whisper It gently—how it could possibly have arisen, who first made it up, or heard it, or dreamt it, no one could find out. If it were not for the exertions of Captains Speke and Grant, I might perhaps say, as well try to discov-

I might perhaps say, as well try to discover the source of the Nile; but that platitude has been robbed of its point.

The report was, then, that the new Mrs.

Mrs. Haye, being the widow of a profes Mrs. Haye, being the widow of a professional man, and possessing an independent fortune, arrogated to herself a certain importance in the parish, which was conceded, partly perhaps to a self-assertive power, and partly to a very uncertain temper.

"The marriage itself is, no doubt, an intrigue between the curate and his sister," she proceeded. "Everybody knows how poorly the clergy provide for their children—and just think of the seams of Mr. Chester's coats! Of course this is altogether admirable for them both."

"I think you go a little too far," ventured Mrs. Frankton.

Mrs. Frankton.
Her visitor stooped, and laid one yellow kid finger on the faded geranium.
"The thing is—are we to notice her?"
Mrs. Haye's tone was solemn and impressive and the speech altogether had a magnificent sound. Underneath it there was an uneasy, restful doubt lest, in the innumerable divisions which do so singularly intersect the classes with lines difficult to tersect the classes with lines difficult to comprehend, the new Mrs. Rashleigh should think herself above her neighbors in the so-

Something of this must have cropped out; for Mrs. Frankton, looking upon the yellow kid finger, broke into a laugh of genuue amusement. "At any rate," she said, "as we have hitherto been very good friends with Mrs. Rashleigh, I suppose we shall be neighborly enough to call."

Some unhappy thread had snrely got entangled in the fabric of poor Gertrnde's fate, and had been enwoven with it. Prejudice had crept ou before her, and was already doing her invested the mischief. already doing her incalculable mischief. "Oh! I dare say she will be trying to visit at Sir James Field's, and possibly with Lord Cavendish himself. We cannot keep up with that sort of thing, you know."
Again Mrs. Frankton laughed.
"Upon my word," sho said, "I am quite tired of Mrs. Noel Rashleigh before I have seen her. She has had more than could be compressed into nine ordinary days already. How do you think my rose-hedge

CHAPTER IV.

HER IMPRESSION.

It was a somewhat dreary morning in November, that month which is so unfairly naligned as snicidal, and which is so often one of the mildest and most agreeable months in the latter half of the year. Gertrude Rashleigh left her seat at the breakfast table with some haste, and knelt down at a low window which she threw open, leading over the stone sill outside. The proximate cause for this change of posture must have been the approaching footsteps of a servant or the defor a mistress to confess, but Mrs. morning she was afraid of everything. She was so lonely, and wretched, and low-spirited, that it was hard to keep back the tears, and gulp down the lump in her throat, a giving way to which would, she reflected, be so very childish. She scolded herself, instead of this giving way. What did she want? Had she not all, and more 'han all, that could possibly be desired? Was not her hisband kindness itself; and had she ever heard a harsh word from his lips? Never! Perhaps it was early days for that yet; and per-haps also, in the midst of her self-scolding, the shutting of the distant door of his laboratory fell upon her ear with a blank, chilly reminder of the desolate and aimless day before her. A day like yesterday, and the day before, and, oh! so many days be-fore, that she could hardly remember when they began, and certainly could not look forward to the time when they would end. And then her thoughts wandcred back to the first few days of her life in this new home. How happy they were! How constantly Noel had been with her! What pleasant walks they had taken together about the tields, and down under the wilder. lows by the riverside. And he had started the project of a boat, in which he was to row her to the ruins of an old abbey a few miles lower down the river; and George was to go with them and make a pic-nic of it. And the cooing of woodpigeons was in her ear again; the rippling of the clear beautiful water, as the willow branches kissed it; and she saw again the great pink beds of wild geranium, and the wild yellow iris, the foxgloves, forget-me-nots, and countless wild flow ers growing in the coverts by the river. In the fields, too, the startled pheasants ran from the path, scarcely fearing her suffi-ciently to fly ontright. And then the rab-bits and hares, and the thousands of birds with their marvellons songs-all new to her! But, above all, Noel had been there.

And the wife of a few months ronsed herself, for a great hot tear had fallen on her hand, and more threatened to come—a shower more like July than November; hor and thundery.
"I won't do it," said Mrs. Rashleigh, passtonately. "I will not—it's wicked."

And so tear after tear fell, and was wiped way with angry vehemence, and still they essisted in coming. "Aunt Jean, Aunt Jean, what would you say to me now? Oh, I wish I had some one to scold me for being so wicked and ungrateful! But Aunt Jean would never come uninvited, and how was it possible to invite her, when she would see and know all?

Parisian Rumors.

The Paris correspondent of the New York Times says the excitement over the possibility of a rupture between France and the Uulted States is on the increase in that city and "causes lufinitely more uneasiness

All sorts of possible and impossible ru-mors are flying about on the subject, and on all sides a demand is made for a word of explanation from the Government.

Among other statements is one to the effect that a coldness has intervened between the Governments of France and Russia, because the latter has gained the ascendency at Washington, and because it was by the advice of Russla that Mr. Lincoln consented to go to meet the Confederate commissioners at Fortress Monroe! The logic of the thing you will see is in the fact that on former occasions we refused the entrea-ties of France to try to bring the rebels to terms by peace conferences and then yielded to the sollcitations of Russia.

Once started, it was just as easy to go further, and to the above report has been added a sequel, or more properly a corollary, to the effect that a secret understanding has beeu come to by the United States and Russia, by which Russia promises that when the United States attacks France and England in Mexico and Canada, or France alone in Mexico, she will recommence the march again through the Danu-bian Principalities toward Constantinople. It suffices to mention these reports, to show you the extent of the excitement ou the subject.

The French official and semi-official papers have within a few days changed their toue again, and become more hostile to the Union cause. He states that the separation of citizens into Northeru and Southern sympathizers is becoming more and more sharp and decisive, and that this is as visible in governmental circles as ln the public.

These two parties, he affirms, "quarrel almost with the same vivacity as a Northern and a Southern man would do, and this fact accounts for the many contradictions and the many currents of opinion, or rather fluctuations of oplnion, we observe in the French press." Such a fact by itself will prove a most stringent and effective restraint upon any ambitious or sinister designs Louis Napoleon-the most wily and uncrupulous of all royal scoundrels-may have against this republic. Prince Napoleon, Emperor that Is to be, if the present Emperor holds on to his head long enough, and don't hold on to his crown too long, is not only with the North, but takes extra pains to manifest the fact. This writer gives the following instance: A few evenings ago a well-known Democratic politician of New York was invited to dine at the Prince Napoleon's, in company with some leading French Liberals, all of whom, including the Prince, expressed the results in the Prince of the Prin themselves strongly in favor of the North and of abolition. The Princo said to the New York Democrat that the pebellion was parting ones of Mr. Rashleigh, or perhaps both, since the expression of Mrs. Rashleigh's face was not one which would have borne the scrutiny of servants' eyes.

She listened to the noisy removal of the breakfast service, and once or twice had an breakfast service, and once or twice had an would be glad to get them out, for he was breakfast service. impulsive desire to beg for less violent de- tired of the whole affair, and thought the monstrations on the remover's part; but French people were also. He expressed she restrained herself. It is a lumillating the warmest sentiments of friendship toward the United States, and hoped that the two nations would always remain the good friends they had been.

Rev. Stuart Robinson, DD., Enlightening the Canadians.

We learn from the correspondence of the new religious paper, of which the Rev. John C. Young, co-pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church anuounces himself as Secretary and Agent, and which from its general tone, seems to be a sort of "True Presbyterian, Junlor," that Stuart Robinson has been giving Sunday evening lectures to the Seccssionists and citizens dwelling in the regions round about Toronto, in the Province of Canada West. The Reverened gentleman has been proving from the principles and practices of Moses and Abranam, and the Patriarchs generally, that buying and selling human beings at the anction mart, as practiced in the Southern States, is a very plous occupation, and withal has abundance of Bible precedent in its support. We have uo doubt the Reverened gentleman made ont his case to the satisfaction of his audience, and that he could easily prove the rightfulness of conenbinage and polygamy by precisely the same kind of logic. Brigam Young always falls back on the Bible as he interprets it, whenever the immoralitles and beastliness of Utah society are objected to in his presence. This is au old dodge of the chivalry in the United States, whatever it may be among the sympathizers in Canada, but it is altogether too late to save slavery by that sort of logic. The precepts and teachings of both the Old and the New Testaments may be put to a much better use.

The newspaper before alluded to informs us that the lectures of Mr. Robinson on this subject are published and stereotyped, and that a large edition is called for. We sincerely hope that the brethren will get a few cores into circulation at Richmond and other parts of rebeldom before it is too late. Indeed, we very much fear it is too late already. Neither the Church nor the State will have much use for a proslavery gospel after the winding up of this pro-slavery rebellion-and the winding up process is going on at a rapid rate.

Stuart Robinson may be a very good logician, but he can no more withstand the logic of events than Mrs. Partington could stop the waves of the Atlantic oceau with

MRS. HUMPHREY MARSHALL EN ROUTE

South.—The Baltimore Clipper, of Tuesday

last, says:

Major J. L. Wharton, 5th Kentucky Cavalry, arrived in this city yesterday, haying in charge six political prisoners to be sent through the lines by order of Major General Palmer, commanding at Louisville, Ky. Among the party were Mrs. Humphrey Marshall (wife of the rebel ex-general) and two daughters. Mrs. M. has been quietly residing at Louisville, Ky., for some time, and recently applied to General Palmer to be sent through the lines, stating she was "rebelliously" inclined, that officer promptly acted upon her application. She expects to rejoir her husband at Richmond where he is practicing law. One of the daughters, to rejoin her husband at Richmond where he is practicing law. One of the daughters, who it seems has become enamored of a dashing Federal Colonel, is stated: to have strongly demurred at the idea of going South, but the mother's will prevailed and she was induced to accompany the party. They left the city in the mailboat yesterday afternoon for Fortress Monroe.

Belligerent Colonel Harney. [For the Union Press.]

Colouel Harney, September 24, 1862, said:

And what are you going to do about it? Give up the Union and join the rebellion, because Abraham Lincoln has Issned a mischievous, pestilent proclamation? His conduct will not alter our determination to conduct will not after our determination to fight forever for the Union of these States, Dissolve the Union, and then—what? Do you escape emancipation? Would not war come? And would it not then be a crusade against slavery?

The rebellion has brought all this upon us. It can bear no other fruit. The more power It gets the more calamities it will inflict.

Let the rebels now lay down their arms and obey the laws of the Federal Government, and the proclamation of the President is a nullity. They can relieve the country of any dangers or injustice from such a source. They will not do that; not an iota of their pride and ambition will they sacrifice. We can only say to them what we have always said: Obey the laws and drop the rebellion, or we will compel you.

The same Colonel, as late as 4th Februa ry, 1863, said:

The secesh are now all for peace. The South began this contest by various acts of war. All this while the Government for-bore. The war was for months all on one bore. side. Why is it these secesh love peace so well, and at the same time feel such a fondness for the men who made the war, and who still lasist on war? Let them go to their friends and talk peace.

One party can make war—it takes two to make peace. If we withdraw the army of the United States, will the South abandon her issue—a dissolution of the Union? Shall the Government invite the rebels to take what they want for the sake of peace?
Kentucky warued, admonished, entreated these Southern States not to bring these calamities on us and them. They spurned our advice. They, at the same time, told their people the war would not disturb them; that it would be on the banks of the Potomac and Ohio. They have tried to wage war here. As our worst enemies they have destroyed our property and plundered and murdered our people. We wish the peace party would make their dear friends in the second States keep the peace in Kentneky before they gay peace. Kentucky, before they cry peace.

Their cry of peace useans simply to sur-ender to this rebellion; that it is all of it. t means to sell out Kentucky to her mortal nemles, who will never forgive her resisthe cotton States. Let those who wish such a destiny for Kentneky, cry peace. We shall submit to it when all are subju-

But this ideutical Colonel, the following month, dld submit to the peace party, and has cried peace ever since!

An Important Problem in Science Settled Perhaps the most important discovery, and that which will most prominently mark and that which will most prominently mark the past year in the history of astronomical progress, is that which was anuouveed to the Royal Society by Messrs. Huggins and Miller. This discovery upsets all the doctrines to which astronomers have pluned their faith during the present ceutury. Every one is familiar with the term Nebucta, an expression employed to designate rertain misty masses of matter from which light is emitted, and which can only be examined with the aid of the most powerful felescopes. These bodies, which appear as New York Democrat that the mebelion was a crime, and most and would be put down, and that in his opinion it was already near its close. He said that he differed with his guest in regard to emancipation, for that he had upheld President Lincoln in his emancipation measures from the start, and in fact the Prince and his Freuch friends showed themselves so much better Americans. enormous distance from us, appear blended together into a confused mass. Watchful ob-servers concluded as we have said; and it has been for years the delight of astronomers to "resolve," as the term is, these nobulæ. Since, however, thanks to the researches of Funsen and Kirchoff, a new sysem of chemical analysis exists, by means f which we can tell from the light which a pody emits what is the nature of its composition, and since, this method has been put in practice in the case of the snn and fixed stars showing in them a constitution closely resembling that of our earth. Messrs, Hug-gins and Miller determined to put the light of the nebulæ to a similar test. The spec-trum analysis of the nebular light has been accomplished, and, wonderful to tell, it has revealed the presence of only one or two el-ements and these are glasses. Hence, tho conclusion is inevitable that the nebule are most probably enormous masses of lumin-ous gases or vapor. This important conclusion, which is one of the most remarkable that has been for a long while arrived at brings astronomers back, in some degree, to the peculiar views of Laplace as express ed in his "Nebular Hypothesis."

Lace has a subtle and peculiar character quite independent of its costliness. It has myserious beauty, which partakes of the carvings in Gothic cathedrals. Lace old lace, is a product of art, not of manufacture; human life, human volition, is expressed in every inch of the delicate mesh, which makes the costly ground to set forth the pattern. There is individuality impressed ipon cach kind of lace, just as there is upon the great school of painting; for the artist in each put their seal upon their work. It took a lifetime to produce even a small quantity of lace. "Les belles et eternelles quantity of face. "Les bettes et eternettes i'alenciennes," as they were called, required so much labor that some workers could only produce twenty-four inches in the year. The changes in the atmosphere and the fluctuations in the health of the work-ers told on the finer kinds of lace; and it was well-known fact, that If a piece were begun In the city of Valenclennes and finished ontside the walls, it would be inferior, though it might be the work of the same hand, made with the same thread, and also on the same pillow. The flax of which the old Brussels and the point d'Alencon were made was cultivated on purpose; It was chiefly grown in Brabant, Haile and Courtrai, and had to be spun in undergound cellars, because contact with the external air made the thread brittle. The thread was made the thread brittle. The thread was unade so fine as almost to elude the sight the spinner had to go by the sense of touch the spinner had to go by the sense of touch, examining every inch as it left the distaff, and the slightest irregulaity stopping the wheel. The room was kept in darkness, except for one single ray of light to fall on the thread, which was thrown up by a background of dark paper. As it was in the sixteenth century, so it is now. The wheel and distaff are still used to spin the tax for lace thread, and under the same conflax for lace thread, and under the same conditions. No machine has yet been invented to equal the work of the trained flax spinner and her distaff. At the present day the haud-spun thread is often sold at £240 for one pound averdupois of thread, and at the French exhibition in 1859, it was stated that sometimes the price runs as high as £500 for the kilogramme. Fine lace may well be costly!—[London Anthem.

A curate, who pretty well knew what she had been, sald, "Ay, my loid, but she was Mare Mortuum first."

A DRAFT INSURANCE.

In Louisville and Jefferson county there are hundreds of men liable to draft whose business relations are such that serving the Government as drafted men, or procuring substitutes at the present high rates, are alike attended with peculiar hardships.

We have, after deliberate calculation and careful examination, concluded to insure men against the draft ordered for the 15th of February (now temporily deferred), and have completed our arrangements for the purpose of furnishing and mustering into the service an acceptable substitute in every case where one of the insured is drafted.

Experience has shown that persons can be insured against the perils of fire and disease upon a fixed calculation of risks. Are not public and individual interests subserved by insuring against the contingency of being drafted? It is estimated that of the number liable to draft a contain liable to draft a certain proportion will be Accepting this ratio as a basis, we feel justified in undertaking to insure against the incoming draft, and shall muster in acceptable recruits in proportion to the ratio of quota to the number on enrollment list. Each man insured will be given, on payment of premium of insurance, a certificate which shall entitle him to exemption, and in the event of his being drafted, we will furnish the substitute in his name and stead and thereby procure from the Board of En rollment his exemption papers, which are to be given him upon h!, returning said cer-tificate of premium to us.

To those whose business relations make it a great sacrifice to go as drafted men, and those who, if drafted, would be unable to procure substitutes, the benefits to be derived from such insurance are plain and tangible. You are insured against the anxiety and personal inconvenience incident to one who knows not but what his uamo may be drawn from the wheel. From these haras sing cares and anticipation you are re-lieved, as we will fill your place with an acceptable substitute, already mustered in, if you are drafted. You are thus spared the pecuniary sacrifice which you must make when, after being notified that you are conscripted, you attempt to pay an exorbitant price for a substitute, when men take advantage of your individual necessity. You are then left to the prosecution of your busings of the constraint of a box of the constraint of the prosecution of your business and the automated a box of a box of the constraint of the prosecution of your business and the automated as the prosecution of the ness and the enjoyment of a home's privil-ego, and if poor, can you not better pay a moderato sum now than an exorbitant price for a substitute after the draft? price for a substitute after the draft?

Belleving that the public have confidence in-our ability to perform what we propose, and of which we will furnish the most satisfactory evidence, we shall enter upon our undertaking. This proposition cannot fail to meet the wishes of hundreds in Louisville and Jefferson county, for it insures an accountable substitute to every drafted was eceptable substitute to every drafted mar who may take insurance of us.

We have facilities that few enjoy, and shall be careful not to undertake more than we can safely, and without fail, thoroughly ecomplish.

We will insure against the draft ordered for the 15th of February, 1865, and all sup-plemental drafts to fill the quota under that eali for One Hundred Dollars

This sum strikes us as so moderate as to induce hundreds to step promptly forward, and avail themselves of the opportunity offered. And if he evacuates, it is no longer easy to Imagine what promising road is open to him. If he would join Johnston and throw the confederacy upon Sherman, he has delayed too long. For not only is Sherman firmly established on his new, short, and secure line of operations, and reinforced by Schofield from Newberne and Terry from Wilmington, but the two great armies of the confederacy have each to fight under Wilmington, but the two great armies of the confederacy have each to fight under the moral disadvantage of recent defeatadisadvantage which their junction will not sufficiently counterbalance. If he would retreat westward, he has delayed too long. A Collapse.

The contrast between life and death was finely illustrated at the court house meeting last evening, together with the folly of non-committalism in times of revolution, of attempting to lead men with a trumpet that "gives forth an uncertain sound." This will be apparent on reading the report of the meeting ln our local columns. The meeting was an adjourned one. The first installment of it came off last Saturday evening. It was ostensibly a call to citizens generally, irrespective of party. This was made especially prominent in the invi-

The President has Issued an order for the celebration of the fall of Sumter. General Anderson is to unfurl the same flag that he lowered, which is to be saluted by all the forts and all the rebel batteries that fired on the fort originally, and in addition to this. Henry Ward Beecher is to be invited to deliver an address on the occasion.

Our propried disputables give us a more sata tation for last evening. Our special dispatches give us a more satisfactory account of Sherman's victory at Averysboro and Bentonvilie than we have heretofore received. The fighting was severe, but Johnston was so badly whipped that he made no attempt to hold the railroad, retreating at once upon Raleigh. amount of property involved in the management of our city government, and of surprise at the apparent lack of Interest exthree days, and is not yet exhausted. Further particulars occupy great space in both our evening and midnight dispatches. It is no longer to be doubted that Lee's effort was the one great struggle for which we have waited—the desperate attempt to crush Grant before the arrival of Sherman, precipitated somewhat by Johnston's defeat below the Neuro on the 18th to the 22d one on Saturday. Still the Senator as the lone on Saturday. one on Saturday. Stiil the Senator as be-fore was a prised at the lack of Interest. And after the passage of his resolution that once; and since Lee is not only repulsed the "friends of Mr. Delph," notwithstantus attacked and beaten in turn, it is necessary for him to evacuate Richmond at once—eise inscribe over the gates the legend withdraw his name as a candidate for Mayor, he moved that the meeting adjourn! The forloruness, the mouldiness, and semiparalysis of the whole affair up to this point, well befitted the shuffling attempt to sniuggle a partisau candidate upon the citizens of Louisville in the name of no-party. Citizens of all shades of opinion came as they were invited, and found themselves politely requested to say uothing and do nothing unless they were the "friends of Mr. Delph"-an anti-amendment Guthrie Democrat!

But the presence of these "all shades" produced paralysis amongst the "friends" with such vigor that his army, already in process of rapid dislintegration, would not hold together a mouth. He might reach the transmississippi deparlment; whether he would take twenty thousand men, one eighth of his estimated force, thither with him, is very doubtful. We shall be much pleased if he can take a hundred thousand—the country will be cheaply rid of so much aforesaid. And they feebly withdrew their men were the actors. Of course there was uothing more to be done than the mere expression of opinion, and that was done in an admirable and eloquent manner by Mr. Thom: sson, the new chairman, whose words were received with lively applause. The constitutional amendment was the one in vitable theme, and the enthusiasur for it was apparently unauimous and was cer-uot to promote the interests of a merejy partizan candidate, why didn't he stay and do it? He had as large an assemblage of them before him as he ought to expect to meet for such a purpose. And they were nearly all prominent and influential citizens. Does he despise all efforts at doing good except by the wholesale? Or did he discover that the particular little private dish he had cooked up, in the name of the public, was likely to get spilled uext Satur-day? And was this what caused the sud-den collapse of his interest in this "exceedingly important question?"

A Change Needed. In the speech of Mr. Guthrle at the court louse, as reported in the Journal of yesterday, he says: Our dispatches furnish further evidence that the inotel burning scheme was concocted by rebel emmisaries in Canada.

Beware of Wickliffe Candidates.

[For the Union Press.] Phil. Tomppert, sen., E. S. Craig, Pat. Campion, and Dr. J. W. Knight are municipal candidates.

Last year, May 24, a "mass meeting" of the Louisville Wickliffe Democracy adopted resolutions reported by J. R. Buchanau, E. S. Craig, T. J. Conn, T. J. Frazier, Wm. Mix, H. F. Kaltus, S. M. If they stultify themselves at this important crisis, they do it with their eyes open. "Siave property is lost to Kentucky," says Mr. Guthie, and we have no doubt a large majority of the people of Kentucky agree with him and rejoice that it is so. Lonisville should at once place herself in the advance movement of the new order of trings, and we believe she will do it.

We are glad to see by the card we publish this morning, that, although Mr. Bland's losses are much greater than at first supposed, not one of his depositors or creditors will suffer. He is fuily able to pay every dollar of his liabilities; and is solicitous that no one shall be for a moment uneasy in view of this bold robbery. We have heard of instances where he has anticipated payments and paid interest not were still unsatisfied. He represented to make a great deal more this year, and expected to make a great deal more this year, and expected to make a great deal more this year, of course, is among the used up individuals. He started out with twenty thousand in goid, which belonged to his wife. This, with profits on early transactions, he used up all his margins, and left him high and dry, with a large debt to manage. We would refer this rebel parson to the history of Pharaoh's lean kine. He will recoilect how these devoured the fat kine, and were still unsatisfied. MEETING AT THE COURT HOUSE LAST great circus. NIGHT,-MR. DELPH WITHDRAWS,-The adjourned meeting at the Court House last night of the friends of Mr. Delph, as a candidate for Mayor, was more numerously attended than the meeting beld last Saturday night in the Chancery Court Room. This may have been owing to the fact that it was understood it was to be a meeting of the citizens generally to take some action with a view to present a suitable candidate for Mayor at the coming municipal election.

Mr. J. R. Brown was elected Chairman, and W. L. Murphy and R. Fiether were appointed Secretaries of the meeting. Mr. Guthrie, after some remarks on the importance of the eclection for city officers, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the friends of John M. Delph in this meeting have full confidence iu him as a man, and one who would make a good Mayor aud excellent officer, and give a correct account of the annual re-ceipts and expenditures of the city, and as far as possible promote its interests and prosperty; but owing to the numerous can-didates for the office, to some of whom many of his friends are committed, and there seems to be no general wish to make a nomination, we recommend the withdrawal of his name as a candidate.

Before the resolution was put to a vote, Mr. Delph made some remarks explaining the reasons which induced him to an nounce himself as a candidate, and acquiescing in the withdrawal of his uame from the list of candidates. Several gentlemen objected to the resolution on the ground that the unceting was not understood to be composed of the friends of any particular candidate, but of citizens generally. Mr. Guthrie said that none but the friends of Mr. Delph need vote on the resolution. If the frieuds of other candidates desired to organize a meeting afterwards they could do so. The resolution was then adopted. A motion was made to adjourn, which was voted down. Mr. Brown declined to occupy the chair any longer, the object of the meeting having been accomplished, and n unotion, Mr. Thomasson was called to the chair.

On taking the chair Mr. Thomasson said this whole affair seemed a little strange to him. He had understood that the meeting was to be of citizens generally, not of the friends of any particular candidate. He was a citizen, and though not as large a operty holder as some other men as much interest as any man in the welfare and prosperity of the city. Had he not understood that this was to be a meeting of citizens generally, he would not, probably, have been present. He thought some action to present a candidate should be taken, but thought that was not the proper time for it. He said there were two parties in the country, and there was no use to try to blink the fact. There was but one great question before the country. Congress had passed the Constitutional amendment abolishing slavery, and every man in favor of it should come ont openly for it. He was in favor of making the tight on this issue. He had no candidate for Mayor, but he would vote for no man tion to present a candidate should be taken, for Mayor, but he would vote for no man who was not in favor of removing the dead carcass of slavery from Kentucky. Mr. Thomasson's remarks were frequently applauded.

A motion was then made to adjourn, which was adopted.

TURNED OVER AS PRISONERS OF WAR.-Col. Grayson and eight meu, who were captured and have been held as guerrillas, were yesterday turned over to Capt. Pratt, commissary of prisoners at this place, as prisoners of war. Graysou and several of these men were sent to Lexington and tried before the military commission couyened there as guerrillas, but there was not sufficient evidence against them, and they will now be held for exchange. Grayson was captured some time ago in Meade or Breckinridge county.

LETTERS WITHOUT STAMPS .- Persons should bear in miud that ictters dropped in the Postoffice without stamps are sent to the Dead Letter Office at Washington city. This rule of the department has frequently been made public, but there seem to be a great many persons who are ignorant of it in this city, as letters are daily thrown into the office without stamps. All such letters are at once forwarded to the Dead Letter Office.

John Patterson, alias McDougal, and Francis Richards, were received at the ago for trial before the inilitary commission convened there. They are charged with having been guerrillas. Patterson was captured at Versailles, Kentucky, in November last, and Richards at Louisa in De-

REGULAR MIDNIGHT REPORT.

Army of the Potomac. Fifth Dispatch--Further Particulars of

The number of prisoners brought in by the 9th corps was reported yesterday correctly at 1,800. The loss in this corps is not far from the official figures, which have not yet been ascertained. After the fighting ceased at this point of the line it was thought that the attack might have been made to cover a more important one on the made to cover a more important one on the left, and consequently the entire army was put under arms, to be ready for any emergency.

Gen. Humphrey was ordered to make a reconnolssance in front of his line in order to develope the enemy's strength, and asto develope the enemy's strength, and as-certain their movements. This was done shortly before noon, and the picket line was here driven in or captured for a considerable distance. Our men continued to advance, and part of the division reached and took possession of a second line of light works, but the rebels afterwards charged the latter in line of battle and forced our men back to the line first taken. to the line first taken.

This was principally caused by the fire from two batteries which they were enabled to throw along this advanced position. From this time till four P. M. the firing was not very severe, the enemy having re-tired to their works, leaving a strong picket tired to their works, leaving a strong picket ine to hold their pits.

At this hour the signal to fall in was given along the rebel line, and soou after a heavy column, appeared, and, forming a line of battle, advanced in a charge on Gen. Miles' division, but they were gallantly received by the heroes of this division, who soon drove them in disorder and with heavy loss.

Twice they repeated the charge to break through the line, and failing in this, they endeavored to turn the right flank, but General M. was ready for them here as at other points, and they finally fell back and disappeared, leaving their dead and wounded on the field. The roar of musketry on this ground was as severe and continuous for two or three hours as was ever heard, and was not surpassed even by that heard at the Wilderness. Gen. Miles and his officers and men received the highest praise for their gallant behavior on this occasion.

The third division under Gen. Matt held he center of the line and repuised each attack of the enemy with spirit, although the contest there was not as desperate as in front of the first division. The second division held the extreme left of the line to ward Hatcher's. The brigade columnaded by Gen. Smythe only being engaged they advanced at the same time with the rest of he line and took part of the enemy's forts with a number of prisoners. The losses in the second corps as near as as can be ascer-tained are 650 with probably 100 missing.

Among the casualties are: Colonel Bilsee, of the 49th Pennsylvania infantry, Lieut. Colonel Andrews, of the 20th Iudiana, and Major Hamilton, of the 00th Pennsylvania, were wounded, and Captain Stewart, of the 100th Pennsylvania, killed.

The engagement between the 6th corps and the enemy here, as at other parts of the line where the 2d and 9th corps fought, was brought on for the purpose of ascer-taining whether the rebel works were occupied in force. Some of the troops finally reached the rebel pickets, and took about forty-seven prisoners, driving the balance back to the main ranks. The enemy's batback to the main ranks. The enemy's bacteries were very active here, and did a good deal of mischief. Firing was kept up till dark without any attempt on their part to regain the lost ground.

The casualties in the 5th corps were 25 officers and 414 men. Among the killed are Capt. Douglass, 139th Penn.; Adjt. Martin, 122d Ohio; Adjt. Crawford, 139th Penu.; Lt. Col. J. G. Parr, 139th Penn.; Major J. F. Ritch, 93d Pa.; Col. Killear, 93d Pa.; Col. C. A. Milliken, 43d N. Y.; Capt. Rample, 139th

The number of prisoners in our hands as the result of the day's operations, is 2,271 enlisted men and 88 officers, besides about 150 wounded in our hospitals.

An order is being issued to the army congratulating the officers and men ou the plendid victory achieved over the enumes of the country, and thanking them for their behavior on the occasion. To-day a good deal of picket firing has been kept up along the lines, but without any casualties as far as known. About 25 deserters came in to-day bringing, however, no news. BALTIMORE, March 28 .- A Fortress Mon-City Point reports all quiet in front.

Battle of the 25th-Sixth Dispatch. NEW YORK, March 28 .- The Time's corespondent with the left wing of the army of the Potomac of the 25th says the Fifth, Second, and Sixth corps were in motion this morning. The 6th corps forned in line of battle along their main line of defense, and shortly the 2d corps moved forward. Wright sent his 2d and 3d divisions, and the engagement thus became general along the entire line of the left, driving the picket line before them.

As soon as the enemy saw that the Sixth corps purposed holding the pits their line of battle came over their works, and charging on our men pushed them slowly back. General Wright then brought up Wharton's division of his corps, and with their heip the command retained possession of the rifle plts.
The fighting in the front of the Second and Sixth corps was of a most desperate character, and the losses in killed and wounded heavy on both sides. The Sixth corps loss is estimated at about 400 killed, wounded and missing. The Second corps loss will not fall far short of that number. loss will not fall far short of that number. The 6th corps captured nearly 500 prisoners, and the 2d corps somewhere near 600. During the battie Gen. Crawford's division halted and remained outside of the range of the shells, by the President, Geus. Grant and Meade, and several ladies.

The Times' Army of the Potomac special of the 25th says: The affair of to-day has been in contemplation a long time and was weil prepared for. It was known that the enemy had been previously concentrating enemy had been previously concentrating all their best troops and a large number of guns near the point of attack; had provided abundance of ammuntiou, and completed the arrangements deemed requisite to enable them to take the desired position. If they had succeeded they would have severed the communication between this army and City Point, and deprived us of all chances of obtaining supples. We should then have been driven to the extreme of assaulting them in their own works or abandon this encampment.

The place chosen for the demonstration, though not the strongest part of our lines, possessed advantages found no where else along our front. It was on the extreme right of this army, on the south side of the Appomattox river, and where the shape of the ground afforded excellent facilities for rapidly entrenching and securing themselves. It would have given them complete command of the line of our military relived and reference and property and the second condenses the second condens

The Tribune's Goldsboro special of the 22d gives the following account of Sherman and Schofield's unovennents:

He Communicates with Sherman. He Communicates with Sherman.

Sunday communication was opened with Sherman. Gen. Schofield sent Capt. Wing with an escort, who succeeded in reaching his headquarters. In the meantime Sherman's scouts arrived at Schofield's head-quarters, bringing word that his advance was within 15 miles of Smithfield. Sher-man had cucountered but slight opposition; Hampton's and Wheeler's cavalry ocea-sionally coming and trying to check his advance

The Fight at Averysboro and Bentonville. Sunday evening the enemy made a stand about fifteen miles south of Smithfield, where a line of strongly entrenched field works had been thrown up, and with batteries in position, opened on Gen. Sherman. The 20th corps, forming the center, were the first engaged. The 14th corps constituting the right and the 17th the left, were advanced, and a brisk fight followed, in which our own and the rebel army was heavily engaged.

Our own loss was not heavy. In the meantine Gen. Schotield pushed forward rapidly. The advance of Sherman's left wing on the enemy's right in the direction of Smithfield, made it necessary for the enemy to fall rapidly back to cover this point. Schofield continued to press them throughout Mouday, and on Tuesday entered Goldsboro.

Tuesday Sherman advanced again and sklrmished with the rebel rear guard till reaching Bentonville. Here the enemy had entrenched on the opposite side of Mill Casels. The 20th course is the side of Mill Creek. The 20th corps was first engaged and at noon a sharp fight was progressing along the whole line, the cavalry of Kilpat-rick being actively engaged upon the left thank flank.
The 20th corps suffered a temporary check, but the 14th corps coming up in good time, they held the ground. The 17th corps was advanced to the support of the 14th and 20th corps, and succeed in turning the enemy's right and compelled it to give way. The enemy then fell back abandoning his works and passing through Smithfield took the road towards Raleigh. Sherman followed up the retreating rebels and entered Smithfield without further fighting.

Great Military Work of the Age. LIFE OF NAPOLEON

OFFICE OF THE LOUISVILLE UNION PRESS, TUESDAY EVENING, Maich 28, 1865. TOESDAY EVENING, march 25, 1855.
There was not much animation in the market to-day in any department, excepting that holders generally were marking down prices, and we think the present the best time for our country dealers to make their purchases. Our merchants have full stocks of dry goods, groceries, and all aviables suitable to full the dealers. and all a ticles suitable to fill the demands of interior buyers, all of which are offered fully 20 per cent. less than bhyers, all of which are the close of last mouth. New Or-leans Sugar, prime, that was recently purchased in New Oricans at 23%c, without adding the freight, is now offer-ed at 22c. The stock of Louisiana sugar, however, is very light, and holders are not much disposed to make concessions. Island sugars sell at much lower rates. The Provision market is pretty well sustained, with no supplies of country bacon, but city dealers steadily sup-plying country customers, as the stocks in the country are very light. The Flour market is very duil, with no emand whatever, excepting for extra brands for family use. The weather was cloudy with a light rain in the morulng, but clearing off in the evenlng. The river is falling very fast.

The Money market continues exceedingly tight, the banks doing very little business, and Government Vouchers are pressing the market at 10 to 12 discount, with very little currency to meet them. Gold, as we learn by special dispatches, opened to-day in New York at 153%, and at 12:30 it had advanced to 154%. The banks are taking Eastern Exchange, which is scarce, at % and selling nal last evening, by the mark. During the previous 24 hours the river had fallen 3 feet at the head of the falls, and fully 1 foot at Portland. The weather was cloudy yesterday with a light rain in the morning.

On the falls last evening there were 7½

In Beatern Exchange, when is secrete, at % and selling at par. The Cincinnati Gazette of te-day says:

"The banks threw out Kentucky currency to-day, with the exception of Northern Bank, and put it at a discount of Northern Bank, and put it at a discount of Northern Bank, and put it at a discount of the parent banks to lurnish greenbacks for the notes of the branches. Under this system the Kentucky banks will have less difficulty in retiring their circulation than when they pald a premium for it."
